

My Journals

How to find electronic journals

What is it?

My Journals lists all the journals available to you online.. Links to e-journals are provided, as well as dates for which full text is available.

Use My Journals when you have a list of references to find. If you are looking for articles on a subject, it is better to use healthcare databases, such as Medline, Cinahl etc.

Do I need a password?

Yes, you need an NHS Athens username and password. If you do not have one, register at <https://openathens.nice.org.uk/>.

How can I access My Journals?

- Go to <https://journals.nice.org.uk/> or click on the link from the library website <http://library.northumbria.nhs.uk/>
- Click on OpenAthens login in the top right corner and enter your NHS Athens username and password. Always log in with your NHS Athens username and password, otherwise you will be able to access only a very limited number of journals.

How do I search for a journal?

- Either enter the journal title in the box and select Exact title or type the first couple of words in the title and select Start of title. Then click Search.
- Alternatively, enter a keyword or keywords in the box, select All words in title then Search. This will find all journals with your word/words in the title.
- Remember that for some words, for example paediatrics/pediatrics, you will need to search under the British and American spellings to find all the relevant journals.
- If the journal is available online, there will be one or more links (e.g. ProQuest or Elsevier ScienceDirect Journals) with the available dates below. Click on the link and navigate to the issue or article in which you are interested.
- Most of our e-journals are via Athens, but there are a few which require different usernames and passwords. This information will be displayed.
